

General rules of conduct:

Anchors - Use common sense when setting top rope anchors or rappelling, refrain from using roots or small trees for anchors. Yell down to others at the base of the cliff before tossing your rope over. Give them warning and time to move.

Other peoples gear - Never, Never step on a rope (be careful and watch where you step), and Never touch or remove other peoples gear or anchors

Vegetation - Trampling or removal of plant material is un-acceptable! Use designated trails only, tread lightly and keep your impact to a minimum.

Chalk - Please consider using it at cruxes, not on every hold and cleaning it off when you're done, avoid using it on easier climbs. Do not use for graffiti, this may entice someone else to do the same or worse (Spray paint and carving).

Trash - it's only 5 minutes back to the car...clean up any old tape or garbage (Don't be shy about packing out any trash laying around).

Bolts - The routes here offer reasonable protection for natural lead, or can be top roped or bouldered. Please do not place bolts within the park. There are some existing bolts placed on out lying crags these routes are the exception.

Pets - Maintain your pet! This includes keeping fido on a leash and cleaning the mess.

Volume - No one enjoys having outdoor experience ruined by loud screams. Please contain your excitement, or distress. The average cliff height is only 40' tall, so you don't need to yell too much. Please leave your stereo's at home.

Falling objects - No one is perfect and occasionally you might knock an object over the cliff edge. Always Yell "ROCK" loudly! no matter what the object is. This will give
